MORRIS COLLEGE

Mr. Quinton Dawkins

"I WILL TEACH READING, WRITING, AND ARITHMETIC AND PROGRESS TOWARDS SELF-ESTEEM, IMAGINATION, AND DETERMINATION."

~QUINTON DAWKINS
VISION STATEMENT

Our Call Me Mister spotlight this month will highlight Mr. Quinton Dawkins. Quinton is a rising junior from Simpsonville, South Carolina. Quinton believes Call Me Mister will help him reach the goal of becoming an African- American teacher in America.

He looks at it as a program to prepare him to teach the next generation of students. Quinton hopes to teach elementary school children, and coach football or basketball at the middle or high school level.

Quinton holds fast to his personal Vision Statement, "I will teach reading, writing, and arithmetic and progress towards self-esteem, imagination, and determination." In this career field, Quinton hopes to develop the student as a whole in an effort to prepare the next generation.

Morris College CALL ME MISTER program led a panel discussion at USC-Sumter on March 3rd for the Call Me Mister Showcase.

Morris College along with USC-Sumter and Clemson University hosted the Call Me MiSTER Recruitment Showcase for high school students from surrounding counties to promote the Call Me Mister Program and to highlight the importance of a quality education. School districts who joined us in this collaboration included Sumter, Kershaw, Clarendon, Lee, and Williamsburg. The mission of the Call Me MISTER® (acronym for Mentors Instructing Students Toward Effective Role Models) Initiative is to increase the pool of available teachers from a broader and more diverse background, particularly among the state's lowest performing schools.
