Learn Today, Lead Tomorrow, Serve Forever

Colonel Christopher Williamson, a graduate of Fayetteville State University who also holds a Master's Degree in Clinical and Behavioral Counseling, is a walking advertisement for service. Colonel Christopher N. Williamson is the first African American to hold the position of Commander in the South Carolina Highway Patrol. In addition to his success in the SC Highway Patrol, Colonel Williamson runs a non-profit organization called the Williamson Forward Progress Youth Services Foundation. The organization is designed to provide services to the youth and their families and assist them with problem-solving issues that will help them grow and become contributing members of society.

Colonel Williamson encouraged students to learn to make the best of your situations and adapt. As Honors students, your commitment to education involves long hours, dedication and commitment and should be looked at as an investment towards being successful. He told students, "Being successful does not come by chance; you have to create a chance to be successful." Colonel Williamson reminded students that the investment in themselves today is an investment in their communities tomorrow. He left the students with six principles to navigate them to success.

1. Don't choose a career for a job, find your calling so you can believe in it, and be motivated. Have an attitude to serve and not be served.
2. Be Courteous- remember the golden rule.
3. Be Humble- remember who you are and where you come from
4. Be Respectful-to others and yourself
5. Pay attention to detail- it will set you apart from the rest
6. Control your emotions and anger

He reminded students to pay attention to who is on their team and surround themselves with positive people who will support them on the road to success. He also encouraged students to remember that they are a walking advertisement for their community, be it positive or negative, every decision they make will reflect on their friends, family, school and themselves.

Dr. Leroy Staggers commended students on their academic achievements. Commending their dedication and hard work, he encouraged students who did not achieve academic honors to continue to work hard and strive to do their best.
